FAITH—in action

America owns a high confidence in the manhood of her men of action that must forever distinguish her among the nations of the earth.

Yet—when Milton J. Budlong of New York pledged himself to pay millions of dollars for a product he had never seen, he did the unprecedented thing. And when Herbert M. Allison of Chicago followed his lead, the deep faith that is America's was doubly manifested.

By such men as these two sterling and successful distributors of quality automobiles will the Lincoln product be sold in the cities of America. Our representatives are being selected from among a great host of applications from business men of wide experience, clear vision and fine integrity.

Soon—when the great Lincoln plant in Detroit is ready for full production—will Henry M. Leland, Wilfred C. Leland and their associates make important announcements to the public—inspired by the high confidence that has been placed in them.

LINCOLN

You feel at once the distinct difference in the way the Liberty rides and drives.

LIBERTY

And you know at once, also, that the quality of the car must be of a very high order.

Benito Perez-Galdos, Spanish Author, Dead

Leading Fiction Writer Expires
After Long Illness; Was Aided by His Rulers

In the death of Benito Perez-Galdos, which occurred at Madrid Saturday, Spain has lost one of its foremost fiction writers. Señor Perez-Galdos was born in the Canary Isles in 1845 and in his boyhood went to Madrid to study law. He soon abandoned that pursuit for journalism and fiction. He wrote five series of historical romances, of ten volumes each, covering the history of Spain from the beginning of Napoleon's aggression down to the Spanish-American War and the loss of Spain's last colonies.

He wrote a score or more of novels all dealing with Spanish themes and most of them portraying phases of the irrepressible conflict between old-time aristocracy and conservation and modern revolutionary ideas with which latter he was himself in strong sympathy. He was a radical republican and frequently wrote and spoke on political topics, though he did not seek office.

Señor Perez-Galdos also was a prolific playwrite. His greatest success was "Electra," produced in 1891, which created a sensation and exerted probably great political influence.

Several years ago his health and his sight failed and he was subjected to abject want. In this extremity the King and Queen started a subscription for his benefit, generously ignoring the fact that he had for half a century been an intense anti-royalist, and in the closing years of his life he was rescued from penury.
